Foreword

The history of our nation's rise to glory is the story of the pioneering spirit; a story of dogged progress against killing odds; a story of untold, countless hardships.

So it is only proper that the theme of this, our first yearbook, of the first public junior college, is that of the pioneering spirit.

It is hoped that this ideal will remain with those of J. J. C. throughout life, and that it will accompany them to the highest pinnacle to which they can attain.

Sophomores are leaving now, probably never again to return as students of J.J.C. Behind them they are leaving more than paid bills. They are giving something far more infinite as a heritage. They were students, and not just collegians.

Familiar faces of freshmen will fill their places. Strange countenances will beam forth next fall to swell the ranks of the first year men. And so it goes.

It seems as though it might be easy to forget a graduating class. Now they are here, these sophomores, but will soon be gone. "But not forgotten."

Scholastic attainments were high. Leadership among them has been commendable. Without it, many happenings that are now happy memories would not have been. Unselfish, they worked for J.J.C.; they served.

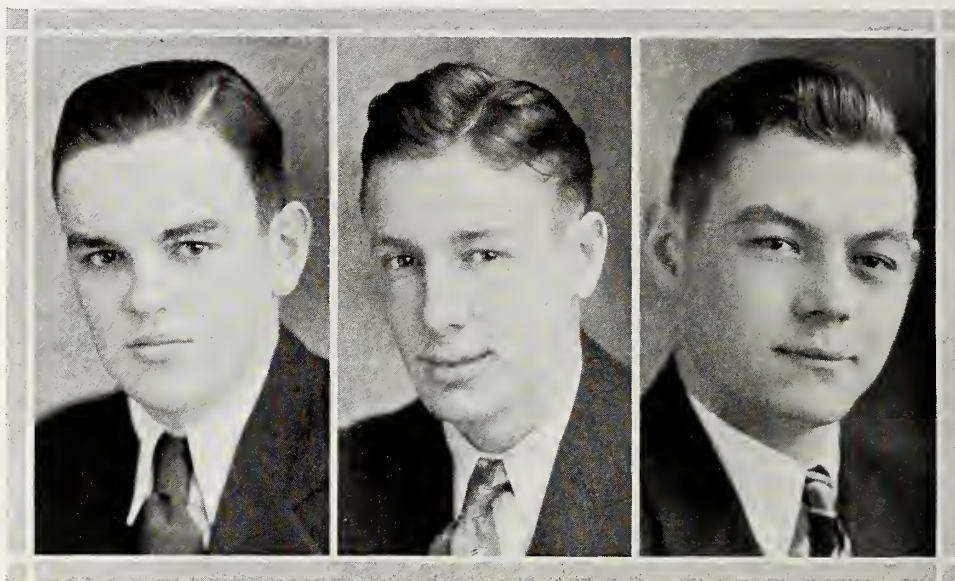

But above all, they had character. Displayed in the classroom, on the athletic fields, and through everyday life, their sportsmanship was something to remember and profit by.

So we bid them farewell and wish them good luck. Let them never forget their first college days, with the memories and recollections which all the money in the world cannot buy.

Next month they will be gone. The whole world lies before them. What they shall be is their own doing. But, under all conditions, let them ne'er forget J.J.C. and its lessons. May they always aim for the highest, keeping in mind those immortal words that mean so much, yet cost so little: "We learn not for school—but for Life."

The Student Council was organized to bring about a better co-operation between students and faculty. It was composed of a member each from the French Club, German Club, W. A. A., men's athletics, Junior College Club, two members from the freshman class and one from the sophomore class. The editor of the Blazer and the two class presidents served ex-officio. The faculty was represented by the adviser.

The Student Council elected its own officers and had the power to make recommendations to the faculty, to question students or faculty members, to direct the social activities of the college, and to recommend the disbursement of the activity fee.

This year the Student Council took up the problem of administration of the recreation room (235). A survey was made of the most crowded days, and students were appointed to keep order.

Another bit of work accomplished by the council was the revision and compilation of a new bulletin of the Junior College.

For the further edification of the student body at large, the council prepared a chart showing the actual disbursement of the five dollar activity fee each student must pay every semester.

A pep meeting was sponsored by the Student Council in order to stir up more interest in the basketball team which was showing excellent results.

The council also sponsored the Winter Formal and the Spring Formal. Both dances were held outside of school and were highlights of the social season. This year the council also sponsored an informal dance in the school lunchroom.

Debate

The J. J. C. debaters tied with Morton Junior College in the number of debates won and lost. When the percentages were totaled, however, Morton won by three points out of a total of some nine hundred. The members of the teams received debate keys, which are the only thing of the kind awarded in the Junior College.

The members of the affirmative team were Frank Masters, Marcus Bluth, and Laura Sprague. The members of the negative team were Donald Kroesch, Clinton Leach, and John Kenney.

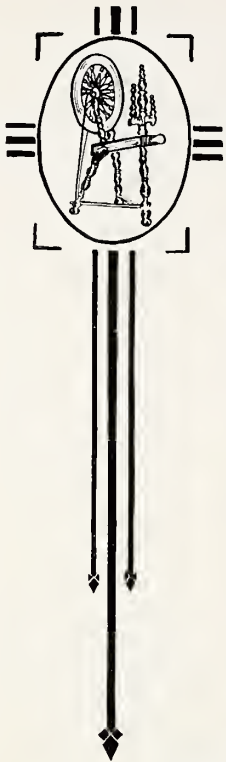

Up until this year debate was held as an extra-curricular activity. Last fall, however, a class in debate was started which was held two days a week, Tuesday and Thursday, seventh and eighth periods. Two credit-hours were given for this class.

The primary reason for starting the class was to make possible a thorough preparation of the debate question for the annual Intercollegiate Debates. Aside from the primary purpose, the course offered a training for the people who had not had the opportunity to take a course in public speaking.

The course proved successful in the development of latent and potential abilities of several students who showed promise of real debate ability for the future. The course also made it possible to have a successful debate season and helped in the development of better debaters.

The aim of the programs of the Feytel Quatorze Club was to give a literary background to the French students. Perhaps the most pretentious meeting was that of the French Academy in Habit-verts. The students took the parts of distinguished French academicians. Prizes were given to the best speakers, as is done in the academy. The winners of French dictionaries were Clinton Leach and Gwen Davis.

The club presented its annual play, "Surprisie d' Isadore," at College Club on March 4. The characters were represented by Ruth McCabe, Dorothy Mortvedt, Betty Beasom, Chester Sidell, and Frank Masters.

One of the best programs of the year was the French geography lesson on the provinces and departments of France.

The gala social event of the year occurred when Feytel Quatorze entertained the first year French club at a tea, held at the First Baptist Church on April 26.

The aim of the French Club meetings was to make the students more familiar with French literature and geography.

Several meetings were conducted in French introductions and expressions used in social meetings. Two playlets were given. Those participating in "La Galette des Rois" were Wilfred Floyd, Louis Booth, Gladys Floyd, Marcus Bluth, William McHugh, Benedict Murphy, Ralph Gussman, Letitia Owings, Mary Owings, and Miss Helen Rix. Those presenting "Les Mois et Les Saisons" were Betty Doxsee, Winifred Bachman, Carroll Bolton, Boyanna Popovich, Eleanor Ovington, Bernice Seaborg, John Dyblie, John Lang, and Mrs. Robinson.

French Club I had a gathering of French Academicians as did Feytel Quatorze. French dictionaries were given to the best speakers, and candy to the "also-rans." Marcus Bluth and John Lang won first and second prizes.

A geography lesson for edification of the students' knowledge of the French provinces and departments was the subject of one club meeting.

The German Club, composed of first and second year German classes, held its meetings on the Thursday after school, of every other week. The club is a social activity of extraordinary interest to those interested enough in German to spend more than class time on the subject.

The most important project of the club was the producing of the play for the college club program. The play, "Wie Man's Macht in Amerika," or "How One Does It in America," was a German comedy. The characters of the play were: Bob Barrick, Virginia Fahrner, George Carlin, Ruth Schumm, Kenneth Howell, and Margaret Cox.

The club was ably sponsored by Miss Philena Clarke.

The JC-Y Club held meetings every second Wednesday throughout the school year. At each meeting, following a supper, a program was held featuring an outside speaker or short talks by members of the club. The meetings were held at the Y. M. C. A., and frequently there was time afterwards for a swim in the pool or some other form of recreation.

The club was one of the newest in the school, having been formed only last year by a group of fellows who had been in the HI-Y Club during their high school years, and who wished to carry on their fellowships into college life.

Many of the members attended the HI-Y Father and Son Banquet which was held in March, and also the Mother and Son Banquet on May 15. A wiener roast was held on April 19.

The JC-Y Club had many interesting speakers at its bi-weekly meetings, including many prominent members of the faculty and notables from the city.

The Junior College Dramatic Club with its membership of an even dozen originated four years ago as one of the first hobby groups of the Girl Reserves. Its purpose was largely social, but its members also aimed to read and see good plays. Every three weeks informal meetings were held at the various homes of the members. Short programs were presented and plays read or reviewed. The entertainment was planned by committees appointed by the chairman for each meeting. The group made one public appearance this year in a skit given before the College Club. The most important social occasion was a theatre and dinner party made possible through the united efforts of the members in earning the necessary money. The presentation of a one-act play as the final program of the year was perhaps the most ambitious dramatic effort within the club.

Since the group was made up of freshmen, they undoubtedly will carry on next year under the same organization.

Junior College Chorus

The Junior College Chorus was organized in September, 1931. After many vain attempts, this organization has become permanent in the college.

The chorus has been meeting on an average of twice a week at the noon hour. It has been not a period of relaxation but one of valuable instruction to those going into the teaching profession and has brought the members into contact with finer song classics and good song literature.

This year the chorus gave a Spanish Fiesta for the College Club and the public. The dancing groups of Miss Westendarp and Mrs. Kirby co-operated in making it a colorful program.

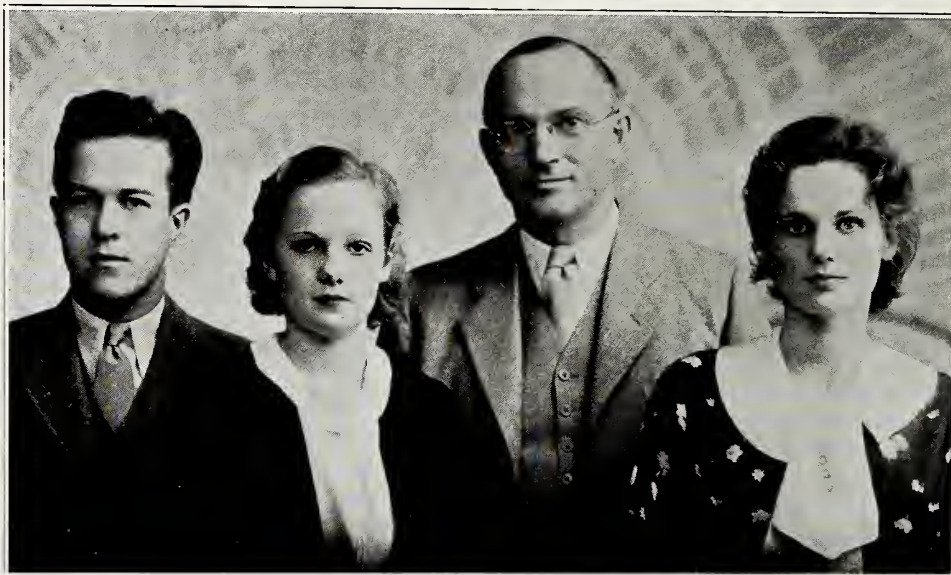

Soloists for this occasion were Gordon Berg, alumnus of J. C., singing the Toreador Song from "Carmen," and Mrs. Bernice Ruggles Evans, the "Italian Street Song."

It is the hope that this group will grow in numbers and become one of the leading musical organizations of the school.

Miss Isabelle Boyd had charge of the Junior College Chorus.

The College Club was a social organization of which every junior collegian was a member. The purpose of this organization was to instruct and entertain in a different manner from the class room and assembly. It was the only club which enabled the whole student body to gather for entertainment. The club held its meetings once a month, except in September, usually on the first Monday of the month.

The first meeting, held on October 3 in the music room, was opened by group singing and selections by Joe Yaggy, cornetist. Mr. Skinner entertained with many of his tricks of magic.

The November meeting was moved ahead to October 27 in order to procure Mr. Jurien Hoekstra, America's favorite baritone singer. Mr. Hoekstra, one of the leading singers of today, studied in Paris and made many concert tours throughout America. His charming personality and splendid baritone voice endeared him to the collegians at once. Many of the students were delighted to hear him repeat some of the songs which were sung by him in an earlier performance in Joliet. Mr. Hoekstra was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Elwood Kraft, who also played two piano solos.

The December meeting was student stunt night. The program was entirely student talent along whatever lines the performers chose to present as entertainment. The stunts were arranged in two groups—individual and group stunts. The winning group was the Shakespearean players, presenting Pyramus and Thisbe from "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The actors were Edmund Puddicombe, prologue; Klusman Parks, Pyramus; Ed Camp, Thisbe; Bill Pettigrew, Wall; and Bob Blatchley, the Lion. They were awarded the prize of ten dollars.

The individual stunt was won by Clifford Hoard, who presented an excellent variety of magic tricks. To see that worthy understudy to Howard Thurston pull trash out of his hat, catch goldfish out of the air, turn handkerchiefs into American flags, etc., was well worth the prize of five dollars.

The program started with a ventriloquist act, followed by a cornet solo by Joe Yaggy. The Shakespeare tragedy was next. It was followed by piano selections by Miss Levin. A group musical selection was next, followed by a novelette given by the Dramatic Club. The program ended with the exhibition of magic by Mr. Hoard. The contest was judged by Mr. Burden, Mr. Givens, and Miss Hamill.

The January meeting was incorporated in the December meeting.

The February meeting featured an acrobatic team from the Chicago Y.M.C.A. Crossbars, somersaults, pyramids, traveling rings, and leaps came one after another, thick and fast.

The March meeting consisted of an annual event of the college club calendar: Three short plays presented by the English, French, and German classes. The German play, "Wie Man's Macht in Amerika"; the French play, "La Surprise D'Isidore"; and the English play, "Detour Ahead," were favorably received by a maximum audience.

The April meeting was given by members of Miss Westendarp's dancing classes and Miss Boyd's Junior College Chorus. The features of the program were a Spanish folk dance, the Hall family guitar trio, and selections by the Chorus and A Capella Choir. Miss Catherine Johnson of the high school gave a brief explanation of pictures of scenes illustrating Spanish customs. Between acts music was furnished by the Chorus.

The May meeting was called off because the club's money was in the closed bank. The attraction was to be the well known impersonator, Miss Edna Taylor, of Chicago.

The June meeting, which was to be in the form of a college picnic, was a question of doubt also.

The expenses for the entertainments during the year were defrayed by a portion of the student activity fund.

The club enjoyed a very successful year of entertainments under the capable management of its officers and its faculty sponsor, Mr. E. L. Mayo.

As a single mimeographed sheet, the Blazer first made its appearance in 1930. The purpose of the paper was, and still is, to give the students an accurate account of the activities; to present readable and interesting features, stories, humor, and editorials. The effect which the paper strives to create is a picture of junior college student life to be presented to the actors of this picture. At present the circulation is one hundred per cent, as the paper is included in the student activity fee.

The Blazer is strictly a student activity. Responsibility and credit for the entire publication belong to a picked staff of journalists. The steadying influence is furnished by its efficient faculty adviser, Miss Lois Hyde.

The Blazer numbers nineteen exchange college publications, from Flint, Michigan, to Moberly, Missouri, and from Los Angeles to Mount St. Joseph, Ohio.

Since its founding, the Blazer has each year sent delegates to the National Scholastic Press Association Conventions. This year Don Kroesch, Chester Sidell, Robert Kesner, and Elmer Feil attended the convention at Cincinnati, Ohio. Later, a regional convention at Northwestern University, Evanston, was attended by Eleanor Ovington, Bernice Seaborg, Emma Seppe, Katherine Ageton, Harriet Munch, and Carolyn Low.

The J. C.

Louis Joliet—a pioneer! Joliet Junior College—a pioneer! And now, its Yearbook—a pioneer!

For there must be a beginning. When J.J.C. was started for the first time, it was the only one in the entire nation. No one knew how long it would last. Its fate hinged on one word—Co-operation.

This year marked the entry of the first annual in this institution with similar conditions faced. A pioneer theme was only fitting; success was its finish.

When Donald Kroesch and Chester Sidell first talked with Dean Yaggy about a yearbook, the world was anything but rosy. Financial conditions were nothing to brag of. Most students were even rather dubious about the possibilities of an annual being put across here. But, as in all cases, co-operation finally won.

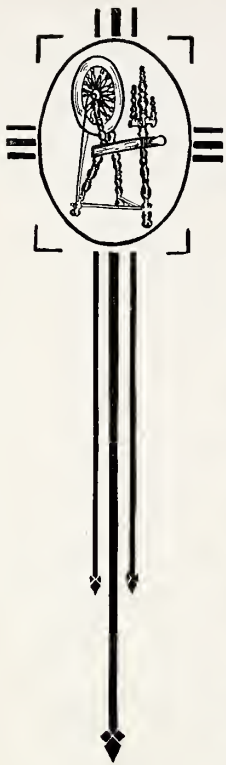

A staff was picked, and work began immediately. The editors worked hard with the photographers, printers, and engravers to get the job done on time. The business officers sponsored sales campaigns, gave a movie, and did everything else they possibly could to reap the wary dollars. Things began clicking, and clicking fast!

The first few pages went to press, and their proofs were returned. The "dummy" was made up, and by the third week in May, the entire book had gone to the printer. The annual was going "over the top"!

Now the yearbook is here, ahead of the promised time. There are extra features that at first were not even dreamed of. All in all, this annual, your annual, is a success.

Hard work, perseverance, and most of all, your co-operation, have won out. The end of the school year is here at last, but its memories are permanently emblazoned in this volume. A yearbook for J.J.C. is no longer a fond and cherished dream—it is a reality!

“Jonesy,” the annual play, was given by the collegians under Miss Lena M. Dickinson’s direction, November 10, in the high school auditorium for the benefit of the college loan fund.

The action starts when Wilbur Jones brings home a “frat” brother, Billy Morgan, who takes “Jonesy” out to play poker. “Jonesy,” to pay his debts, sells the family car to Mr. Silverberg. Wilbur falls in love with an aspiring actress, Diana Devereaux, in spite of all Mildred Ellis’ efforts to win “Jonesy.” The family breaks up Diana and Wilbur’s romance because Jones the elder does not know Diana is Stanley Jackson’s niece, the man from whom Mr. Jones hopes to get a good position.

Henry Jones, meanwhile, finds Mr. Silverberg in possession of his car, and a street fight ensues. A policeman brings both to the Jones home where they meet Mr. Jackson who has come for his niece. Jackson, thinking he is intruding on a confidential quarrel, leaves with Diana, telling “Jonesy” not to report to his office.

The next day Mildred Ellis finds that Billy Morgan’s father is worth a million dollars. They decide to marry. Wilbur fixes it up with Jackson as to his father’s position, makes a poker date with him, and gets the judge to let Mr. Jones off. Then he gets a job on the city street sprinkler so he can marry Diana.

State Tournament

Joliet, 36; La Grange, 27.

Joliet, 34; Ill. Military Academy, 25.

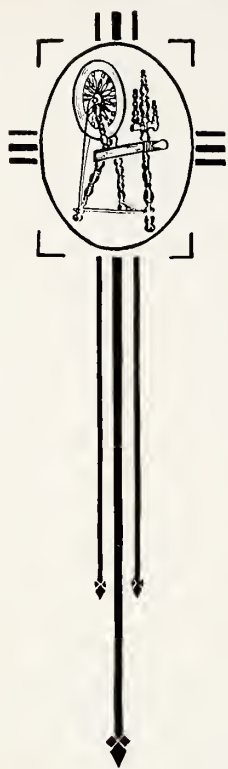

Joliet, 39; Morton, 32.

By winning the first State Junior College Tournament at La Grange the Wolves were the first Joliet team ever to claim a title as STATE CHAMPIONS.

The boys went into this tournament with the fight, determination, and confidence necessary to beat the three toughest teams in the state and to win the deserving name of State Champions. Morton and Joliet men were seeded with the latter, drawing La Grange in the curtain raiser, a tough team especially on their own floor. Joliet came through victorious, playing a smooth game. The next afternoon in the semi-finals Joliet was faced by a stronger team, Illinois Military Academy (winner over Crane). Joliet worked hard, and by taking advantage of every opportunity won by nine points.

The dopesters who seeded Morton and Joliet knew their basketball, for the final game found Morton and Joliet face to face in what was to be the hardest game of the year. Good basketball by the team, strategy by Coach Wills, and the superior moral support that Joliet had in their basketball ethics brought the Wolves the State Championship and also the satisfaction as to who really is the winner of the Northern Illinois conference.

IRVING "Ollie" OLSON.

Captain "Irv." Morris certainly furnished a hard working forward. He was an all-conference choice and led his team in scoring. "Fight, Fight," was his cry. His big night was at North Park when he piled up twenty-two points.

CARROLL "String" BOLTON.

All-conference center. By consistent hard practice he developed the best hook shot in the conference, and he led his team in scoring from the field in conference play. In the State tournament he was used as a feeder from the hole position with his hook shot as a threat. His best games were the tough ones: Three with Morton, three with La Grange, and two with Thornton.

JOHN "J. S." SMARKER.

All State guard. Johnny was a great rebounder and had the most dangerous long shot on the team. He was a good faker and varied his attack by front drives into the basket. His seven baskets against La Grange featured Joliet's attack in the game here.

JACK "Pin" SLATTERY.

The best rebounding guard in the conference for his size. He always had a hot shot up his sleeve and registered in every game. That one-hand shove shot from the side in the Morton game at Joliet brought smiles from all.

JAMES "Jimmie" FURLONG.

Jimmy scored thirty-two points in the State tournament and made the second All-State team. He was a smart, defensive player as well as a high scorer. His basket from the center defeated Gary College in the last fifteen seconds of play.

HOWARD "Howdy" BAHR.

"Howdy" developed into a good player. His left hook shot became known throughout the conference. At Morton he hooked in enough to keep Joliet close until the final minutes of the game. Losing his pants was a high light in the North Park game.

PAUL "P. K." KAUFFMAN.

Paul was put on the spot the first semester, for he had to make good and did. With little experience he developed fast and was an asset to his team. An All-State guard took his position, but he was always ready to step into one of the guard positions.

RALPH "Gus" GUSSMAN.

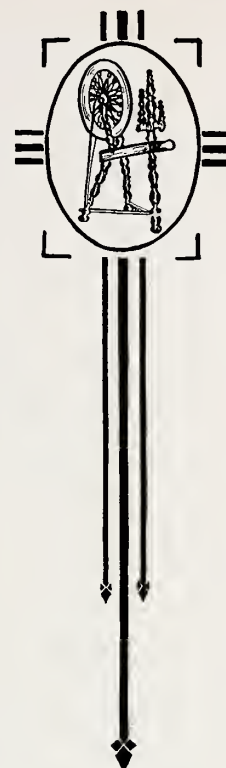

The team needs more boys like this from the South. "Gus" will be "O.K." next year. He is big, a little rough, and a great jumper. Next year will find him much improved and a regular.

GLEN "Hips" THOREN.

A lightweight from Lockport who can "take it." He is a good shot and will improve when he takes on a little weight. He will be counted on for a lot of baskets next year.

GEORGE "Doc" CARLIN, Manager.

To the team he was known as the best in the West. His scrappy spirit and wise cracks kept up the team morale when the going was hard. He was always wide awake and nothing ever got away from "Doc."

	*Conference Games

A successful season, yes, but the beginning of the 1932-33 basketball season found Joliet another victim of the depression, with only two experienced men, Olson and Bolton, returning from Coach Wills' 1931 Championship team. Though faced with a scarcity of material and the longest conference season of his career at Joliet, Coach Wills produced a team well versed in blocking, cutting, and passing.

The burden of conference play the first semester fell upon Captain Olson, Bahr, Bolton, Kauffman, and Slattery. They lost two conference games, partly because of a lack of substitutes. The Thornton game was lost after four regulars fouled out. The loss of Kauffman in the Morton game produced the same result.

which kept the conference slate clean for the remainder of the season, thirteen victories without a loss. There were nineteen victories to six defeats, four of the latter being to four-year colleges. The team's total points equaled 770 to 574 for the opponents.

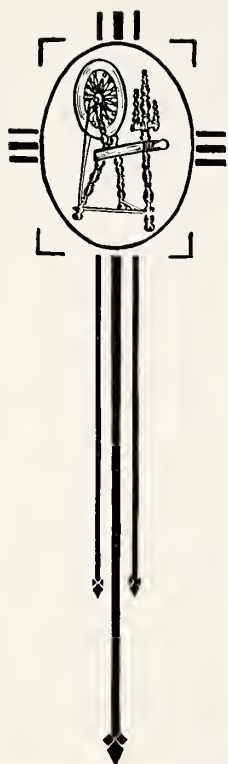

We certainly take off our hats to Coach Wills, who thrives on this game of basketball. From Indiana, the basketball state of all time, he has brought the element of coaching and the personality to be a leader and winner. His "will to win," love of competition, and confidence in his men, were inspiring factors in the building of his third consecutive team. "Set-up" games are a bore to him, but he always expected the best from his men. When the going was the toughest, one could find "AAW" sitting on the edge of the bench with eyes and ears open, taking in every movement and looking for points where he could take strategic advantage of a position. His head work gave Joliet the reputation of being a tricky team that always had a play up their sleeve when in a tight place. An example of his quick thinking was in the game with Morton for the State championship when he substituted "Wes" Neiland to shoot Furlong's two free throws after the latter was removed with injuries. "Wes" did not play a conference game all year, but "AAW" knew he could depend upon him to sink the two free throws in spite of the fact that there was a tense atmosphere of excitement among the players and spectators.

Coach Wills graduated in 1924 from De Pauw University at Greencastle, Indiana, where he starred on the varsity track, baseball, and basketball teams. He played first base on the baseball team, threw the javelin for his track team, and in his senior year captained the basketball team. He scored 66 points in his last four conference games.

His coaching career began at Brook High School, Indiana, in 1924 as head basketball coach. For three years his teams won the Indiana State District Tournaments. In the fall of 1927 he took up his coaching activities at Garret High School in Indiana as head basketball, baseball, track, and football coach. In 1928 he came to Joliet to pilot the various Junior College teams to successive championships in almost every sport in the Northern Illinois Junior College Conference.

Congratulations, Coach, and good luck. May you continue to add to the reputation of Joliet,—"The City of Champions."

At the time of going to press Joliet was well on the way to another conference championship with three victories and no defeats.

Coach Wills had been confronted with a scarcity of material. Only four letter men, Captain Slattery, Smarker, Miller, and Padratzik, returned from the 1932 championship team. These boys were carrying the major part of the burden upon their shoulders. Discouraging weather had been encountered, and as a result ten games remained to be played in three weeks.

In the first conference game with North Park, Smarker pitched Joliet to a 3-0 victory. The heavy batting of Captain Slattery, Bahr, and Smarker produced the necessary runs.

Strong competition was found at Morton and an eleven inning game resulted. Smarker banged out a home run with the bases loaded and Padratzik followed suit in the last of the eleventh with Thoren on base, to make the game somewhat of a slugging fray. Four other runs were scattered in during the early part of the game, to bring the total to 10-8 in favor of Joliet. Slattery batted a perfect game, four hits and a walk.

The cream of the conference pitching ability battled for thirteen innings at La Grange. Joliet won 4-2 with Smarker striking out nineteen men, walking none, and yielding but seven hits. Slattery's smart hitting and base running started things off in the first of the thirteenth. Smarker followed with a single and Hoffer drove in the two winning runs to end a great day.

CAPTAIN JACK SLATTERY. Shortstop.

Was the class of the conference at the shortstop position. He was a smart player and a sure fielder. He led his team in hitting and was the reserve pitcher.

Johnny played any position. He was a good hitter and a fine college pitcher. He fanned 19 men in a 13-inning game at LaGrange. His home run with the bases full beat Morton.

RAY PADRATZIK. First Base.

Had tough luck with his hitting. He seldom fanned. Won the Morton game with a home run in the eleventh inning. He was a good first baseman.

ARTHUR MILLER. Catcher.

Fast and aggressive. Art had a good arm and he used it. Seldom did an opposing team steal a base.

"H" was a hard worker and developed into a sure fielder and hitter.

JOHN LANG. Second Base.

His first year at this position. Was unsteady in the beginning, but settled down and fielded in good style. He was the lead-off man and secured many walks.

EDWARD BROWN.

Ed has the prospects of playing a lot of ball next year. He's smart and fast. With a little more experience he should make a good second baseman.

He talked them out of their hits. He was a good hitter. His triple at Concordia cleared the bases for Joliet.

LESTER NELSON. Third Base.

His persistence in developing a quick throw to first won him this position.

WILLIAM BARRY. First Base.

The best reserve first baseman we have had. He was a good fielder and could lay out some good hits.

Was a good reserve infielder. If he had moved a little faster, he would have been a valuable man.

He could field and hit to perfection, so what more was there to do?

Came to the team late in the year to make the needed replacement. We hoped he could hit and field; that's all anyone could do.

REMAINING GAMES

Joliet entered the conference race this year with all the determination and pep they could muster in an effort to win the conference title for the third consecutive year. Two letter men, Olson and Carlson, returned from last year's championship team and joined forces with Hoffer and Nelson to down the squad that to date boasts of a clean slate in and out of conference play. In non-conference warm-up matches DeKalb Normal was twice victim of Joliet, along with Aurora College. North Park, Morton, La Grange, and Concordia were swept aside in conference play, leaving only Lisle and Thornton between J.J.C. and the conference title. Joliet had not been defeated in a conference match in three years.

Captain Olson, snappy singles player, kept his opponents jumping all year with his smashing drives that seemed to have more and more power as a match progressed. His aggressiveness contributed much to Joliet's record this season. Ray Carlson did a man's job at serving his "sizzlers" this year. His returns coupled with his ability to analyze the opponent's attack netted him many matches. Bob Hoffer earned the title of "Death at the net." With that long reach of his he fairly picked the ball from the air to spell disaster for the unsuspecting party. Bob's best game was at Morton. He lost 3-6 but fought back for a 6-3, 6-3 victory. "Red" Nelson who played doubles with "Irv" came through like a veteran for his first year. His hard-working attitude helped him to profit from every advantage.

At the time of going to press two matches remained to be played. We hope it may be a three-year undefeated conference record.

W. A. A.

OFFICERS

President .....	LOUISE CARLSON
Secretary-Treasurer .....	ELIZABETH MCCAMBRIDGE
Social Chairman .....	ZORA SITAR
Faculty Adviser .....	MISS DOROTHY WESTENDARP

By winning one of the biggest events of the girls' athletic season—the inter-class meet—the Junior Collegians proved that the aims of their organization have been fulfilled, for the W.A.A. has two fundamental purposes: The promotion of good sportsmanship, and the development of interest in girls' athletics.

According to the W.A.A. point system a small "J.C." is awarded to girls earning 450 points, and a large emblem is given to girls having 800 points. As we go to press, the girls who will probably receive the 800-point award are Louise Carlson, Virginia Dille, Elizabeth McCambridge, and Ruth Souvenier. The 450-point winners will probably be Lois Adams, Virginia Anderson, Grace Gjessing, L' Marie Marwick, and Zora Sitar. These girls gained their points by participating in all sports, by being proficient in gymnasium work, athletic leadership, and by keeping training rules.

A very proficient social committee—Betty Predovich, Eileen Mason, Ruth Souvenier, Virginia Dille, and Gwen Davis—under the supervision of Zora Sitar, planned many successful social affairs. The year started with a picnic at the grounds of the Joliet Riding Club. Two girls' choice dances were given on October 28 and April 28. Another picnic ended the social season.

Interclass Meet

Joliet Junior College won the girls' interclass gymnastic meet on December 16 by a very small margin. The High School Seniors ran a close second.

THE SCORE CARD

Appearance.....	42.9	39.1
Technique.....	99.8	106.6
Rhythm.....	23	21.3

Folk Dancing.....	86.6	84.9
Total.....	331.7	331.1

The meet was not a gymnastic exhibition, but a result of bi-weekly class activities in the physical education department, promoting body building exercises and good posture, and developing rhythm and leadership. It consisted of competition between classes in folk dancing and gymnastics, directed by members of the class.

The general manager for the college was Elizabeth McCambridge. The directors were Lois Adams, Virginia Anderson, Mary Burrill, Gertrude Johannsen, Harriet Munch, and Ruth Souvenier.

Many delightful folk dances were presented. The college gave the American quadrille and the Rye waltz. The Czecho-Slovakian country dance, "Kana-faska," was interpreted by the High School Seniors; the Danish quadrille, "Tretur," by the Juniors; a country dance, "Alle Schwarzen Bruder," by the Sophomores; and "Indian Braves" by the Freshmen.

Girls' Basketball

Freshmen .....	3	Juniors .....	23	Sophomores ....	7	Jr. College .....	19
Sophomores ....	18	Seniors .....	24	Seniors .....	25	Seniors .....	38

The annual girls' basketball tournament was of interest in the girls' sport world of both the high school and Junior College, for the winner of the high school contest always played the all-college team for the championship.

The high school seniors were victorious this year, and although the college came up on the wrong side of the score, it was an enjoyable event, because fair play and good sportsmanship were very much in evidence. The tournament was played during the week of April 23-28.

The all-college team was composed of: Elizabeth McCambridge, captain; Christine Schwartz, Zora Sitar, Louise Carlson, Helen Stoll, Katherine Ageton, Virginia Anderson, Grace Gjessing, Lois Adams, and Martha Luccock. This team was chosen from all the collegians who came out for the sport. The list of these girls included: Eleanor Hoffman, L' Marie Marwick, Virginia Dille, Virginia Anderson, Elizabeth McCambridge, Grace Gjessing, Louise Carlson, Letitia Owings, Mary Owings, Veronica Sharpe, Betty Scheidt, Dorothy Welch, Katherine Ageton, Martha Luccock, Lois Adams, Zora Sitar, Helen Stoll, and Christine Schwartz.

The members of the senior class team that won from J.C. were: Jane Carlin, captain; Mary Kirincich, Mary Cooling, Jane Huey, Rita Fleming, Fern Kellenback, Arlyn Killeen, Veronica Rossi, Helois Schmitz, and Bernadine Melby.

Souvenir, Leach, Davis, Abolin, Dille.

College Riding Club

One of the most enjoyable and active branches of the W. A. A. is the College Riding Club. They started their season by joining the W. A. A. in a steak fry; the Riding Club galloped over the bridge paths while the rest hiked through the park.

When winter came, bob rides, canters through the snow, and ski parties were attractive features.

The first Saturday in May the riding club of the University of Chicago, under the presidency of Helen Mary Brown, graduate from J.T.H.S. in 1931, was invited down for a picnic and treasure hunt through the park on horses.

The climax of the season, as usual, was the annual horse show. In last year's show Virginia Dille, Helen Hensel, Mildred Kristal, Elsie Rinearson, and Peg Wiswell entered the three-gaited. The five-gaited entries were Betty Davidson, Gwen Davis, Doris Eib, Beulah Green, and Betty Groth. Then, too, the collegians met the high school brigade in the great old-fashioned game of musical chair—played with horses instead of chairs. The show this spring was similar to that of last year.

Kramer, Lowrey, Anderson, Souvenier, Marwick, Sitar, Stoll,
Sprague, Carlson, Giessing, Grant, and Munch.

Orchesis

Orchesis, the collegian girls' dancing club, came into prominence this year when they presented a Spanish Fiesta for the College Club on April 19 and for the public on May 21. They were assisted in this entertainment by the High School Orchestra, A Cappella Choir, Junior College Chorus, and guest artists.

The Spanish Fiesta was presented in two parts. The first was a trip through Spain, in which beautiful colored slides from the White Collection of the Chicago Public Library were shown. Sweet Spanish refrains were played during the time the pictures were shown, while explanations were made.

"An Annual Fiesta at Santa Barbara, California" was the title of the second part. It is believed that descendants of the dons still live in this cultured town famous for its "Little Street of Spain." In this part brilliant, flashing Spanish songs were sung, and "La Cucaradio" and "La Jesucita" were presented as Mexican dances.

The gay senors and senioritas in colorful dress and festive mood were interpreted by Orchesis girls in graceful, lively dance. "La Jota," a national folk dance of Spain, and the tango, "El Cholio," proved delightful to the audience.

Surely not only the color and sparkle of the program, but also the sincere spirit in which it was given, the fine expression in dance and song, and knowledge obtained were attractive.

History of Joliet Junior College

The Joliet Junior College, the first public junior college in the United States, was established in 1902. Until 1911 the junior college was a pioneer in its field, little advancement being made in other places.

By 1911 J. J. C. had an enrollment of 52, which increased to 75 in four years, and to 90 in the next four. By 1921-1922 it had reached 108. From then to 1928 an increase of 99 was made, making a total of 207. Increase was rapid up to 1931, the total being 366.

The highest peak of attendance in the Joliet Junior College was reached in 1932, the total at this time, including junior college and high school post-graduates, being 470. Upon the establishing of a tuition fee for 1932-1933, the enrollment dropped to 350, the present number.

In 1915, having been shown the way by Joliet, other educational centers joined the progressive movement by establishing junior colleges. By 1921 there were thirty-five in the United States supported by the public.

From 1902 to 1912 the Joliet Junior College was headed by Supt. J. Stanley Brown. In 1912 the teacher advisory committee was installed, the committee being composed of three teachers. The first advisory board consisted of Mr. I. D. Yaggy, Mr. L. C. Lohr, and Miss Celia Drew. From 1912 to 1926 these committees sponsored the rapidly growing junior college. In 1926 Mr. Yaggy, who had been a member of every advisory board since its inception, was made acting dean, in which capacity he now serves.

After Superintendent Smith assumed his position in 1919, the junior college set up a separate office and library; separated high school and junior college classes; and expanded the curricula to about fifteen. The name "Joliet Junior College" was formally assumed.

Engineering, teacher training, and pre-medical curricula were first offered in the junior college. In 1917 the college was accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. In 1920 six courses were offered in the first bulletin published, and seventeen in 1922, the increase being in technical subjects, such as electrical, chemical, and mechanical engineering. The 1930 bulletin listed only eleven courses, eliminating possible duplications.

The first courses to receive college credit were in the science department—chemistry and physics—taught by Mr. C. E. Spicer. Dr. Brown prevailed upon the universities to grant credit for all junior college curricula. Accordingly, upon the completion of the required courses, admission to the upper division of any university is granted by certificate.

Under Mr. Haggard's supervision the college has entered a new era of progress.

Student nurses of Silver Cross Hospital receive their academic work in the junior college. He has put special emphasis upon terminal courses, designed to train those students whose school life is going to end with the junior college. He has taken steps toward preventing duplications in college courses which are "follow-ups" of high school courses.

Joliet is first in age and third in enrollment among the eighteen junior colleges in Illinois. In size, length of service, and educational advantages, the Joliet Junior College is truly a pioneer.

Scholarships and Awards

Four scholarships are in force at present in connection with attendance in the Joliet Junior College. Two consist of those given by the Township Board of Education to cover the tuition of the Junior College for two years. The other two are private scholarships to help cover expenses for continuing school beyond the Junior College.

The Board Scholarship is given to one boy and one girl from the senior class of the high school. These students must make the highest averages among those living outside of the township and have good records in other school relationships during their attendance at the Joliet Township High School. Preference is given to those who have attended more than one year.

The winners of the Board Scholarships for 1932 were Albert Krusemark, Frankfort, and Iva Gillette, Marley. In 1931, they were won by Chester Sidell and Beatrice Eib, both of Elwood.

Two private scholarships may be won by the students who make the highest average for their two years in Junior College and give the greatest promise of attaining their ambitions through ability and character. One is the Rotary Club scholarship, consisting of a cash award of $200 per year for the remaining two years of the student's college course. This is given every other year. The winner in 1932 was Alan Sahler, who is now attending the University of Chicago. In 1930 it was awarded to George Switzer, who attended Purdue University.

The second is the Charles Nowell scholarship, given every two years to a student who meets the above qualifications. This pays for the tuition, fees, etc., at the University of Illinois. The four appointments rest with the Board of the Joliet College Loan Fund Association.

There is also the Robert M. Adam Award. This is given during commencement week to the girl and the boy in each class who have made the highest semester hour average for the school year. It consists of a silver pin embossed with the Joliet Junior College insignia. The initials of the winner and the year are stamped on the back.

It was proposed by Mr. Robert M. Adam, who felt that students of exceptional scholarship should be given recognition. The plans were interrupted by the sudden death of Mr. Adam. His widow, however, wishing to establish a memorial to her dead husband, donated the funds for it.

The Junior College winners of the Adam award for 1932 were: First year—Marion Holt, 97.23, and Chester Sidell, 92.39; second—Elizabeth Robertson, 95.6, Victor Bruder, 93.26, and Allen Sahler, 94.28. The last named had won the award once, and under a new ruling, it is given only once to the same student. If he earns the highest average again the next year, he is given mention, and the next highest student receives the award.

W. A. A. SPRING DANCE

Blazer Mixer

A regular newspaper atmosphere featured the second College Mixer of the year, sponsored by the Blazer. It was strictly a college affair, held in the lunch room on Friday evening, October 4, with William Pettigrew acting as master of ceremonies.

Strings of Blazers decorated the lunch room, and when they began to clutter the floor, the atmosphere was even more real!

A committee from the Blazer staff had worked out a detailed program to mix the guests and add to the fun. A huge grand right and left was participated in by the entire crowd strung out in a long chain. Even recommendations to Ziegfeld's Follies were given to certain students picked as the best high-steppers by a body of faculty judges.

A box of candy was given to the couple that did the most original or bizarre dance, and competition was keen! Elda Marie Gigl and Bob Blatchley triumphed over all opponents and received the prize.

Informal Washington Dance

Altho there were no powdered wigs or Virginia reels, yet the atmosphere of a Washington festivity prevailed at the all-college dance held in the lunch room, February 24. The decorations carried out the college colors throughout, and refreshments were served.

Chaperons for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Yaggy, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Price, and Miss Myra Mather. Sponsors of the dance were Mr. Warren and Mr. Burden.

W. A. A. Annual Fall Dance

The old saying, "and a good time was had by all," appropriately described the W. A. A. dance held on October 28. Because of the proximity of Hallowe'en, the girls' gym was in full Hallowe'en garb. Winking pumpkins grinned toothfully from the balconies; bunches of dead cornstalks rustled drearily in corners; and awesome witches with cavernous mouths and ancient brooms skulked behind the cornstalks. Pendant ears of corn added to the eerie atmosphere while Sammy Berk's orchestra offered a musical background to it all.

Informal Spring Dance

An informal spring dance was held Friday evening, March 24, in the lunch room, sponsored by the Freshman class for the Sophomores.

The outstanding memory carried away by the guests was the absence of decorations and refreshments. Probably no less outstanding were the intermittent flashes of light which proclaimed the taking of pictures for the year book. The couples almost forgot to dance in their efforts to pose effectively. Dust from the cornmeal on the floor for the purpose of making the floor smooth for dancing coated the shoes of the guests. Chuck Formento's orchestra furnished the music.

The Junior College Formal

The Junior College Formal, sponsored by the Student Council, was held at the Chamber of Commerce, Friday, December 23.

The favors, alligator-skin notebooks with the J. C. seal, were given to each couple.

The decorations were carried out in the Christmas idea. At each end of the ballroom was a huge Christmas tree, scintillating with a thousand icicles on the branches. These were the principal lights for the occasion. The windows gave the effect of having snow on them. The orchestra, Cliff Stange's, was placed on a platform covered with a low-hanging canopy. Adding not a little to the whole scene was the effect of the many beautiful gowns worn by the girls. Red velvet, peach and pink satin, blue and white organdie, and blue net gowns contrasted or added to one another and to the gala scene as a whole.

Calendar

A hush fell over the courtroom as Judge Kenney took his place at the desk. The nine empty jurors' chairs were soon filled by Whitehead, Carlson, Klint, Ageton, Hotson, Fornango, King, Wise, and Anderson. Bailiff Cooper stood with Bible in hand ready to swear in the numerous accused who sat huddled about the long table.

Dean Yaggy, the prosecutor, rose to present his case: "Some one of these kids," says the dean, "has been messin' up the notices on the bulletin board, and I ain'ta gonna stand fur it no more, so it's up to you mugs to prove one of them guilty."

Judge Kenney rose and in turn called up the defendants. Of Bob Jarchow, the first accused, he asked, "Where were you on September 6?"

Bob Jarchow: "Well, after spending a monotonous day at school, buying books, and enjoying the new recreation room, I went home to chisel the old man out of enough cash to pay my tuition."

Judge Kenney to next defendant: "Where were you on September 28?"

Jack Slattery: "Stuffing the ballot-box to elect John Kenney class president, and Carl Groth for the frosh."

Judge Kenney: "Miss Doxsee, were you near the bulletin board on the evening of October 14?"

Judge Kenney: "Where were you October 27, Mr. Myers?"

Adrian Myers (President of College Club): "Preparing something of an introductory speech to introduce Jurien Hoekstra at the first College Club meeting."

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Feil, where were you on October 28?"

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Kroesch, can you account for yourself on November 5?"

Don Kroesch: "I was bumping along in Feil's car on the way home from the National Journalism Convention in Cincinnati, helping Kesner, Sidell, and Feil assort the new addresses we had acquired."

Judge Kenney: "Where were you on November 10, Mr. Workman?"

Lee Workman: "Watching a young blade, in the J. J. C. play of 'Jonesy,' chase around the stage in a pair of purple striped pajamas."

Judge Kenney: "Miss Sprague, were you near school on the eve of November 17?"

Laura Sprague: "No, Your Honor, I was with the winning debating team that went to Thornton Junior College."

Judge Kenney: "Where were you on November 28, Miss Ovington?"

Eleanor Ovington: "I was helping to organize a campaign for the first J. J. C. yearbook."

Judge Kenney: "Well, Boltonovitch, where were you November 28?"

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Camp, you were seen near the bulletin board on December 5. Vass you dere?"

Ed. Camp: "Yes, Your Honor, but only arranging my tresses for the romantic play, 'Pyramus and Thisbe.' However, my charm was unnoticed by the judges, as 'Cliff' Hoard won the first prize."

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Leach, where were you on December 16?"

Clint Leach: "Tearing my hair because Morton was awarded the debating championship."

Judge Kenney: "Miss McCambridge, you were seen in the corridors the evening of December 16."

"Babe" McCambridge: "I was only trying to get a bunch of co-eds lined up for the girls' gym exhibition, which they somehow won."

Judge Kenney: "Miss Barnes, where were you December 23?"

Mary E. Barnes: "Probably treading on someone's toes at the College Formal, given at the Chamber of Commerce."

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Masters, what were you doing all the day of January 9, walking the halls?"

Frank Masters: "Hunting for Marge."

Judge Kenney: "Mr. Sears, where were you on February 6?"

Judge Kenney: "Well, 'Sid,' where were you all day, February 8?"

Sidney Herzog: "I was down in Mr. Yaggy's office snooping to see who got the 127 flunk slips that were on file."

Judge Kenney: "Miss Riblon, you were seen in the hall all the day of February 14."
 Violet Riblon: "I was waiting for a valentine,—and still am."
 Judge Kenney: "Mr. Bluth, where were you February 24?"
 Marcus Bluth: "Having a keen time at the College dance."
 Judge Kenney: "Mr. Sidell, you put notices on the bulletin board on February 27, d'd you not?"
 Chester Sidell: "It being the first day of yearbook subscriptions, I, as the editor, was naturally tending strictly to business."
 Judge Kenney: "Coach Wills, you, too, must account for your actions on March 3."
 Coach Wills: "I was disput'g an overtime period of the Normal game, that gave the championship to Morton."
 Judge Kenney: "Where were you, Olson, on March 18?"
 Olie Olson: "Praying that our keen teamwork would last until the gun ended a battle for state championship; which it did."
 Judge Kenney: "Miss Munch, where were you on March 24?"
 Harriet Munch: "Trying to find some money to pay the orchestra that played for our dance that night."
 Judge Kenney: "Miss Adams, where were you the afternoon of April 7?"
 "Doey" Adams: "I was at the R. O. T. C. Carnival, being crowned its queen."
 As Miss Adams took her seat, Miss Dillman, the attorney for those accused, arose and delivered a short plea to the jurors. The jury retired for a few moments. Mr. Fornango then rose.
 "We, the members of the jury, find those accused not guilty of destroying property on bulletin boards, but rather guilty of being loyal Junior College students."
 Mr. Yaggy then rose to acknowledge defeat and said: "May I ask, your Honor, where you were all this time?"

Evolution

Sept., Dear Diary:

"Has satisfactorily completed the course of work prescribed by the high school," it says. "Gee, it looks nice. I'm gonna hang it in my room. But college isn't so bad. I was absent the other day, and I didn't even have to bring an excuse from mama. I wonder why they call English and arithmetic funny names like rhetoric and trigonometry. The sophomores think they're awful smart, but I sorta think they're dumb. When I don't have classes, I don't even hafta go to study hall."

Feb., Dear Diary:

"Gee! Was she keen! I wish they'd have a dance every week. It's funny what a lot of confidence a semester can give you. I never thought I'd go to the dances. Four o'clock—gosh, if I got home at four o'clock a year ago—oh well, I guess I'm a man now. Imagine the nerve of that army kid just asking me if I had a pass. Humph! Wonder if I was like that a year ago. What's that you say, Soph? Aw, go suck a lemon!"

Sept., Dear Diary:

"As I reminisce through my childhood days, I find it difficult, indeed, to construct a mental image of myself approximating these aimless, sleepy freshmen. The bane of every college, I presume, but so the situation stands, and I for one see no immediate remedy. I think I shall attend the dance this evening, although such childish functions in the name of social life have lost their charm for me and are somewhat boresome; the price, as I see it, that a learned man must pay for his superiority over the masses."

Feb., Dear Diary:

"It is with tear-dimmed eyes that I bid adieu to J.J.C., but my career is of paramount importance. Rather would I further pursue the paths of my predilection into fields untrod by human kind than to participate in the assembling of rubbish, as I shall, for the City Street Department has procured my services; but then the broom and mop will seem as feathers in my hand, as I dream of Chaucer, Milton, and Lamb."
